Raw Materials

Brass is an alloy of copper and zinc that is popularly used for manufacturing faucets because of its property to be resistant to corrosion and hard-water calcification. The components of a faucet can be made up of metals other than copper and zinc. These are received as finished components from other manufacturers.

Casting

During casting, The person responsible for casting places the cores inside the mould and removes any loose sand from the shell mould using compressed air. Molten brass flows into the shell moulds. The solid core maintains waterways open inside the mould, Molten brass flows into the shell moulds. The solid core maintains waterways open inside the mould

Polishing

This process is essential to achieve precise surface finishing. To obtain a high-quality product that exudes a shine, the brass surface is polished to technical precision. This is a combination of manual and machinedriven processes. Once the polishing is done, only then can the product be sent for chrome plating.

Assembly Line

After electroplated and passed the inspection, it can enter the assembly process. Assembly is the process of connecting processed faucet parts in a certain order and technology to become a complete faucet product and reliably realize the function of product design.

Packing & Dispatching

Once the products have been Tested and Shifted to the packing area, packers choose an appropriate box to put the products in. it's important to use a properly sized box so that we can reduce the amount of wasted space. After Packing Final Product in Small Boxes, Boxes are Packed in Master Cartoon. And Material Ready to Dispatched Or Store.

Core Moulding

A solid core is made from fine sand and a hardening agent by heating in a core box machine. The core is a central part of the production process, as it forms water channels in the faucet body during casting.

Machining

Lathe is a machine tool used to machine the turning surface by rotating the workpiece and moving the feed turning tool. According to use: instrument lathe, horizontal lathe, CNC lathe, etc Drilling machine: This is a machine that mainly uses a drill to process holes on the workpiece. Generally, the bit rotates with the main motion, while the bit moves axially with the feed motion.

Electroplating

In this process, first, a base coating of electroplated Nickel is applied to the product. After that, a thin coating of electroplated chromium is applied. The chromium layer makes it durable and corrosion-resistant.

Testing

The created faucets are then tested rigorously on both water and compressed air. Samples are tested for critical dimensions and durability. Faucets are also required to pass several environmental regulations.
